About the Fund

The AQR Wholesale Managed Futures Fund ARSN 147 951 791 ("Fund") seeks to generate attractive risk-adjusted returns while targeting a low long-term average correlation to traditional markets over the medium to long term.

The Fund invests in a diversified portfolio of more than 100 global developed- and emerging-market exchange-traded futures, futures-related instruments, including equity, currency, fixed-income and commodity-linked instruments. The Fund can take long or short positions in any of these instruments and thus seeks to benefit from both rises or falls in the price of the underlying instruments. The universe of investments for the Fund may change under varying conditions and as the instruments evolve over time.

If you act on any information in this document, you do so wholly at your own risk. To the extent permissible by law, AQR Capital Management, LLC and its directors and employees disclaim all liability (whether arising in contract, tort, negligence or otherwise) for any error, omission, loss or damage (whether direct, indirect, consequential or otherwise).

Performance figures quoted in this document are past performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Neither AQR Capital Management, LLC nor its directors, employees or associates guarantee or make any representation as to the performance of the Fund, the maintenance or repayment of capital, the price at which units may trade or any particular rate of return. Returns are calculated: to the last day of each month using NAV prices (incorporating Interposed Entity costs); assuming reinvestment of distributions (which may include net realized capital gains from the sale of assets of the Fund); taking into account management fees and costs of the fund (net return). No reduction is made to the unit price (or performance) to allow for tax you may pay as an investor. Certain other fees such as Contribution fees or Withdrawal fees (if any) are not taken into account.

Broad-based securities indices are unmanaged and are not subject to fees and expenses typically associated with managed accounts or investment funds. Investments cannot be made directly in an index. Bloomberg AusBond Bank Bill Index is engineered to measure the Australian money market by representing a passively managed short term money market portfolio. This index is comprised of 13 synthetic instruments defined by rates interpolated from the RBA 24-hour cash rate, 1M BBSW, and 3M BBSW.

The information in this document, including statements concerning financial market trends, is based on current market conditions, which will fluctuate and may be superseded by subsequent market events or for other reasons. Performance of all cited indices is calculated on a total return basis with dividends reinvested. The indices do not include any expenses, fees or charges and are unmanaged and should not be considered investments.

Investments are subject to investment risk, including possible delays in repayment and loss of income and principal invested. The fund has exposure to the gains and losses of commodities, futures, options, derivatives and other financial instruments. There is a risk of substantial loss associated with trading commodities, futures, options, derivatives and other financial instruments. Before trading, investors should carefully consider their financial position and risk tolerance to determine if the proposed trading style is appropriate. Investors should realize that when trading futures, commodities, options, derivatives and other financial instruments one could lose the full amount of their investment in the Fund. All funds committed to such a trading strategy should be purely risk capital. Diversification does not eliminate the risk of experiencing investment losses.

Risk allocation is complex and subject to change. No representation or warranty is made as to the reasonableness of the assumptions made or that all assumptions used in calculating risk allocations have been stated or fully considered.
